Christian Church Conference Will Convene in Hope

Delegates From Fifteen Arkansas Counties to Attend

MANY SPEAKERS

Three Sessions to Be Held at First Christian Church Here

The eighth annual series of one-day conventions of the Christian church being held in the United States and Canada from December 1 to 15, will convene in this city Wednesday. The meetings will be held at the First Christian church on North Main street.

Fifteen Southwest Arkansas counties are included in this district. Delegates from practically every Christian church in the district are expected to attend the convention here.

These conventions are promoted by the United Christian Missionary society, and last year 61,616 persons attended these meetings.

In one day those attending get a world wide view of the Christian service they are making possible through their church. A national secretary, a missionary, a state missions and a representative of state missions are on the speakers' team. A pension fund statement will be made by a member of this team.

These one day conventions have become one of the greatest enterprises of the Disciples of Christ, and one of the most effective means of presenting the broad work of their communion.

Three Sessions

A feature of the one-day conventions is the banquet for the official board and their families and all others who wish to attend. The banquet program includes speakers with first hand information about the worldwide service of Disciples of Christ.

The general theme of the convention is "The World Mission of Jesus." Three sessions will be held beginning at 10 a. m., 1:30 p. m., and the banquet and evening session at 6:30.

Speakers will include a national secretary, a missionary, a guest speaker, a representative of state missions, and a state leader of women's work.

Every year these one day conventions are becoming more popular. Last year 61,616 persons were encouraged and inspired by these meetings. Reports this year are most encouraging.

Miss Ruth Nichols Seeks Man's Record

Leaves Los Angeles Early Tuesday Morning on Eastward Flight

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—(P)—An attempt to smash both the men's and women's record in the West and East transcontinental flight was started Tuesday.

Miss Ruth Nichols of Rye, N. Y., took off from the municipal airport at 7 a. m. (Pacific Standard time) Tuesday morning. Miss Nichols is the young woman who last week, bettered the former record of a coast to east flight for women by more than four hours.

Miss Nichols plans to make but one stop on her eastward flight, at Wichita Kan., she will have her plane re-serviced. The ship on leaving had a cargo of four hundred gallons of gasoline and is capable of making 185 miles per hour.

Reports indicate that the young flyer will have ideal flying weather from coast to coast.

It is the plan of Miss Nichols to fly high. The ship is equipped for high flying.

It has been announced that the aviator may not proceed from Wichita Tuesday evening, but may spend the night in that city.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—(P)—Miss Ruth Nichols, passed over Kingman, Ariz., at 8:40 Tuesday morning according to a report received here. The plane was flying high.

Radio stations have been unable to pick up any message from the planes since that time.

To Speak in Hope

Dr. Royal J. Dye, former missionary who will be the principal speaker at the one day convention of Christian churches to be held in this city Wednesday. Three sessions will be held during the day. Delegates from fifteen Southwest Arkansas counties are expected.

Investigator Shot By Texas Officers

Killed in Battle After Quarrel With Bus Driver

AMARILLO, Tex.—(P)—A man was shot and killed Monday, police said, in a gun fight with officers attempting to remove him from a bus near Canyon, south of here.

On the body was found a card issued to Brunson McCarver as a United States investigator and a letter of introduction from William J. Bacon, a police officer at Memphis, Tenn.

The man boarded a bus at St. Louis December 6. As the bus started to leave Amarillo the bus driver said the man gave him trouble and he telephoned officers at Canyon.

Sheriff John Dry of Randall county, Chief of Police Frank Hicks of Canyon and Deputy Sheriff Bob Barrett of Canyon met the bus three miles north of this city.

At sight of the officers in an automobile the man began firing through closed windows of the bus, shattering the glass. The officers returned the fire and the man dropped dead.

"Father" of Famed Boat Race Is Dead

LONDON—(P)—The "Father" of the Oxford-Cambridge boat race is dead.

Judge Millis Coventry of Streamham Park, rowed for Cambridge in 1860 and 1861, and he was the oldest veteran of the race.

"Rowing was real hard work in those days," he once said. "We wore straw hats and long trousers, and we had no sliding seats."

He was 92. He practiced law until 1866, when he was appointed County Court Judge. He resigned 25 years ago.

Arkansas and Maine Will Consider Re-Organization

National Institute of Public Administration of New York Has Made Surveys for Both States—To Decide in January

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(P)—The Legislatures of Arkansas and Maine next month will consider almost identical recommendations for governmental re-organization.

The same agency—the National Institute of Public Administration of New York—made surveys for both states.

The main differences in the recommendations concern the highway departments and the number of governments. In Maine, the institute recommended a reduction in the number of Legislators, but no change was proposed in Arkansas.

In each case, the survey was ordered by the governor—Harvey Parnell in Arkansas, and William Tudor Gardner in Maine.

The institute proposed consolidation of the more than 100 departments and boards in Maine into nine administrative departments, and merging of practically the same number of departments and boards in Arkansas into twelve departments.

The Arkansas highway setup was found practical and fairly efficient, but in Maine, "the present situation with respect to highways" was found

Sullivan Construction Co., of Hope, Is Given the Job

NEW LOBBY FLOOR

Building to Be Overhauled—Was Put Up in 1912

A contract for $2,550 worth of repairs and remodeling at the Hope postoffice has been let this week. Postmaster J. A. Davis announced Tuesday.

The contract was awarded to the Sullivan Construction company of this city, and work will begin at once. It is the policy of the federal government to launch all construction and repair projects on public buildings during the present business depression for which money is available, the postoffice department announced.

Included in the local repair contract is a general overhauling of the Hope postoffice, with extensive repairs to the lobby. The lobby floor will be covered with new tiling and decorated with marble borders.

Hope postoffice buildings was constructed in 1912.

Ask Death Penalty For Virgil Williams

Killer of Police Sergeant Facing Trial in Little Rock Court

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—The defense council ask for the death sentence in the case of Virgil Williams, charged with the murder of Police Detective Ned McDermott, after Williams and others had escaped from the Pulaski county jail.

Attorneys for the state also are asking for the death sentence for Arlis Wagoner, charged jointly with Williams. Only Williams is being tried at this time.

Aviation Students Form Foreign Legion of Air

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill.—(P)—A "Foreign Legion of the Air" believed to be the first organized in America, has been established by students from 21 nations, studying aviation at Parks air college here.

In it are youths from India, Europe, countries in North America and from 36 states in this country.

Among the students who have come from afar to attend the local college is Luna Phongs-Sobhorn, who journeyed 14,000 miles from Bangkok, Siam, Kokal Singh, son of the noted British subject, came from Rangoon, India. Many other youths have traveled long distances to attend the school.

A list of countries represented includes Siam, India, Ecuador, Spain, Canada, Cuba, Colombia, South America, Hungary, Germany, Mexico, Peru, Philippine Islands, Panama, Canal Zone, Porto Rico, Honduras, Bolivia, Hawaii and the West Indies.

"An impossible one, and indefensible on any ground except that of partisan political interest."

The estimated saving for Maine was $300,000 a year, and for Arkansas about $250,000.

The governors of both states would serve for four years, instead of two. They would appoint heads of the various departments, except the commissioner of audits, who would in each instance be elected by the legislature to serve as an independent check on expenditures.

Both states would abolish offices of the secretary of state, treasurer and comptroller, combining them with other departments.

Centralized buying systems for all departments and penal and charitable institutions would be instituted in both states.

Each present state government was described as "a ramshackle one, consisting of many statutory lean-tos without the proper constitutional foundation," and the institute said "No halfway or piecemeal measures at readjustment would meet the 'situation'."

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, with interment in the Union cemetery, north of Bodeaw.

Annual Drive For Christmas Begun By Good Fellows

Four Hope Men Solicit the City For Holiday Fund For Youngsters

BIG GIFTS NEEDED

Good Fellows Confident City Will Respond This Year

The Good Fellows club began their annual solicitation for Christmas funds Tuesday morning, with a committee headed by Mark Smyth, Kendall Lemley, Robert Wilson and Carter Johnson.

Mrs. Arch Moore has again consented to purchase the presents, the committee announced; and the Good Fellows hope to equal all past records in this year's gifts at Christmas-time.

"The Good Fellows are aware of existing conditions," their announcement says, "but feel confident that the appeal this Christmas season will not be in vain."

Amid the encircling gloom there is a ray of light to brighten the hearts of children at Christmas-time, and for many of them it would be stark tragedy except for the beacon held aloft by the Good Fellows of this and other communities.

"A number of little tots would have a sad time indeed without your goodness. Most men would make a great sacrifice rather than see a child broken-hearted over being forgotten by old Santa. Without your help there will be many such cases. Let us keep the faith!"

The Good Fellows do not expect to give toys this year, but will concentrate on clothing and other useful things, the committee said.

Girl Killed as Auto Plunges From Road

Six Others Are Injured in Mountain Fall Near Nella

MENA, Ark.—A belated report received here Monday told of a fatal automobile accident Sunday in which the life of Myrtle Wyatt, 19, was snuffed out on a lonely mountain road near Nella.

A truck carrying Wyatt's family from Nella to Scott county became unmanageable in descending a steep grade and plunged from the road, the girl being crushed beneath the heavy vehicle, which was loaded with furniture and household goods. She died instantly.

The injured include J. H. Wyatt, 75-year-old grandfather of the dead girl, her mother, three young brothers and Nick Wright, of Cove, driver of the truck.

The truck was reported to have been equipped with faulty brakes.

The sheriff's department is searching for the negro, whose name is given as Johnny Easter, sometimes known as Johnny Jackson.

Gentry was reported not to be seriously injured. He was brought to Julia Chester hospital here for treatment, but was able to return to work. His right hand was filled with small shot from a shotgun, and one or two pellets hit him in the face.

Officers said that Gentry was attempting to make a collection from the negro when the latter brought a shotgun into play. The white man and the negro talked it over after the shooting when Gentry was found to be not much hurt, according to officers. They expect to arrest the negro Tuesday night.

WASHINGTON—(P)—Completion of national waterways was urged Tuesday, as a necessary step in the prosperity of the middle western states by Secretary Hurley, in a speech before the Harbor and Waterway committee. 60-Million-Dollar Measure Approved Await House Test

Senate Follows Lead of Its Agricultural Committee Report

HOUSE SUM LOWER

Lower Branch Believes Millions Enough—May Force Campaign

WASHINGTON—(P)—The Senate Tuesday passed the McNary bill authorizing a loan of $60,000,000 for seed, fertilizer, feed and the drought-stricken areas of the West.

The measure passed without a recorded vote.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, unexpectedly attacked the Republican administration for its "careless attitude" in permitting the word "food" to appear in the bill.

Senator Robinson had espoused the $80,000,000 bill, but continued to lead for seed, fertilizer and livestock loans only.

Follows Committee.—The action of the senate, Tuesday, confirms the report of the senate agricultural committee, which last week repudiated the Department of culture recommendation of $25,000,000 for drought relief, and raised the estimated requirement to $60,000,000.

A controversy is in prospect as senate committee's action was quickly followed by a report from the cultural committee of the house, recommending more than the Department of Agriculture estimate, and more than the senate report, and raising the figure to $30,000,000.

No final action has been taken on the house on its $30,000,000 bill, but vote is expected this week.

May Be Compromised.—Should the house approve its bill, the two branches of congress would have to go into conference and effect a compromise.

It appears, however, that the administration project of only $25,000,000, beaten, with a compromise between the $30,000,000 and $60,000,000 estimate.

Caraway Explains Compensation Bill

Figures Show Payment Now Will Not Impose Heavy Burden

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Senator Caraway of Arkansas Monday discussed at a committee hearing his bill to authorize immediate payment of the face value of World War adjusted compensation certificates. He outlined benefits which would accrue from passage of the bill, stressing the wide distribution of funds which would result from this form of emergency relief legislation.

Senator Caraway cited figures to show that payment of the face value of the certificates now, rather than at their maturity in 1945, would not throw an additional financial burden on the government.

If the bill is not reported from committee in a few days, the Arkansas senator said, an effort will be made to hasten action by appeal to the floor.

The administration is opposed to the Caraway bill, but several Republican senators view it favorably, and there is considerable favorable sentiment among Senate Democrats.

If in the end some good remain
Shall we regret its birth in pain?
If at the last some splendor shows
Shall we regret the hammer blows,
The flaming fire, the smoke and grime
Of truth's preparatory time?
Out of the ugliness of things
If at the last true beauty springs,
And triumph crowns all battles lost
Shall we regret the strength it cost?
Does aught continue long to please
Which can by all be done with ease?
Who rightly views the scenes of life
Sees all achievement born of strife.
All growth is pain, and this is sure,
Who strives for much must endure.
The only after, toilsome years
The greatness of the soul appears.

New 'Stop-and-Go' Play Suits Designed to Protect Children

Uncle Sam's bureau of home economics has designed a new colored one-piece play suit to serve as a child's own protection against automobiles (right). Left shows a front view of the suit.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—New one-piece play suits advocated by Uncle Sam enable youngsters to be their own stop-and-go lights as protection against automobiles.

The new garments of cotton suede and wool in bright colors have been evolved by women designers in the division of textiles and clothing of the bureau of home economics.

Clad in their snug warmth of bright red, blue or green, even tiny tots will be more easily seen by drivers of cars. It is believed the new clothing may lessen greatly the number of traffic accidents among children.

"Present clothing of children, particularly of boys, too nearly resembles the color of the road and surroundings," says Miss Ruth O'Brien, chief of the division.

The new play suits are so simple that children only 20 months old can get into them alone. They fasten in front with several buttons or a selffastener. They are loose enough to allow plenty of freedom in play, and are made of materials proved both warm and practical.

Before being approved by Miss O'Brien the suits were tested in the textiles division laboratory. Miss Clarence Scott, in charge of children's clothing work, searched through Washington for average healthy children.

After getting their mothers' consent she took a half dozen of them to the laboratory. Here they donned the stop-and-go suits and played unconcernedly for an hour.

The garments seemed to meet the requirements for freedom of movement, durability and good looks, so more suits were sent to an orphanage for further try-outs.

After close observation teachers reported favorably. Now Uncle Sam's new one-piece stop-light play suit is ready to go on the market.

in the Congo country to combat the frightful tropical diseases. He was among the first to attack the problem of sleeping sickness among the natives and contracted it himself with the result that he had to leave that climate.

These early days of the Congo Mission were filled with dangers and hardships. The great majority of the people in the back country were cannibals and Dr. Dye bears scars made by both men and wild beasts. Then the equatorial climate was most trying. But Dr. Dye aided in establishing a church at Bolenge that is larger today than any church of his communion in the homeland.

Though unable to return to Africa as a missionary, Dr. Dye, who is one of the outstanding missionary speakers of America, with a marvelous power of description and the missionary passion of Apostolic days, has gone across the country addressing conventions, churches and other groups for the purpose of increasing missionary giving, and he is in such great demand as a speaker that he cannot fill all the dates offered him.

Dr. Dye speaks under the auspices of the United Christian Missionary Society of Indianapolis, Ind.

Charles G. Aldrich is superintendent of the home mission work in the coke regions of western Pennsylvania for Disciples of Christ. Here, since the World war, he has been director of the evangelistic, the educational and social service work among the people there.

When the Mather, Penn., coal mine exploded two years ago everyone turned to Charles Aldrich. The whole community was paralyzed, and it was he who directed the rescue and relief work.

In the World war Mr. Aldrich was a volunteer Christian worker, and had many unusual experiences in Russia and Siberia. Working in such intimate ways with so many people of the world, he has learned the heart of humanity as few men have been able to do. He brings to his audiences a vital message. His work is supported by Disciples of Christ through the United Christian Missionary Society.

J. J. Walker

Mr. Walker is pastor of the End Christian church, Memphis, Tenn. His ministry has been characterized by successful leadership, and his message in the one day convention certain to be of unusual interest.

Six Insane Convicts in Daring Break From Hospital

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by William Braucher

Can a Man Stand?

The Notre Dame-Northwestern game, the boys from South Bend played like a team for the first time. They died into the game room under Dyche with few words. Some of them went through 60 minutes of the hardest kind of action. They had a tremendous task. They were very tired. Yet there was a lot ahead, such as the game with the Army, then a long trip to the east followed with little rest. There was a Southern team to play.

Stamina was a weariness in the atmosphere. The reaction of the players was a mixture of nervous strain and strenuous effort. The setting in the game of the hardest games a man ever played. Yet two more games remained to be fought. The last game to be the hardest. It was a foreign field and in an alien climate.

Which football can a man play? That Ernie Nevers, quarterback of the Chicago Cardinals, once played 25 games in a season. Being on the sidelines half an hour in all those games was during the first half of the first Stanford and Northwestern game in Florida. College football may be trying because of the "keying" of the players, go through the game after Saturday. But it's a habit that sticks, with the players after college days are watching the pros, however, they realize the idea that they are about their trade rather easily.

DID YOU KNOW THAT?

THAT Chicago Bears backfield, reinforced by Joe Savoldi, looks tough enough, with Bronko Nagurski and Red Grange flitting around. John Wayne, better known around his alma mater, University of Southern California, as Duke Morrison, seems to have clicked with the film audiences. But there are not many football players in the movies. Ted McCoy and Lefty Flynn were popular for a time. Johnny Mack Brown, of Alabama, stays in there taking his cut. Bill Bunker, the blond blizzard of Tulane last year, is still enacting roles for Warner Brothers. The southern accent is pleasing in the talks. Howard Jones makes a pretty good coach in the films as well as in real life. We have several comments from people who saw Rockne's recent talkies. Some of the folks were a little surprised at the crisp quality of Knute's voice. It seems he's not a tenor at all.

Without any lost motion and without a great deal of energy. This may be explained by their efficiency, born of long experience.

Two Days, Two Games

DURING the present season Nevers and others on the Cardinal team have played two games in two days with a night on a sleeper between games. But I find it hard to imagine Notre Dame and Northwestern playing a series on successive days with the same fire and fight the two teams showed in their recent clash at Evanston. The older campaigners, the pros, may be under a nervous strain, but I do not believe it compares with that the players must bear, let us say, in the Notre Dame-Southern California game. The college is more deadly than the pro.

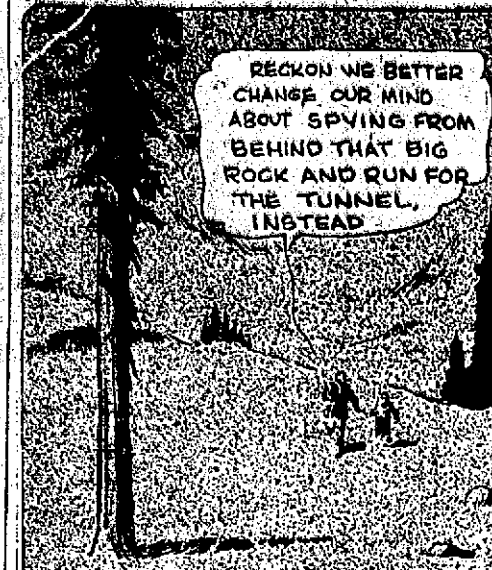

Fertilizer Is Tested In 1,200 Farm Plots

Local Experiment Farm Is Given Publicity in the Fertilizer Review

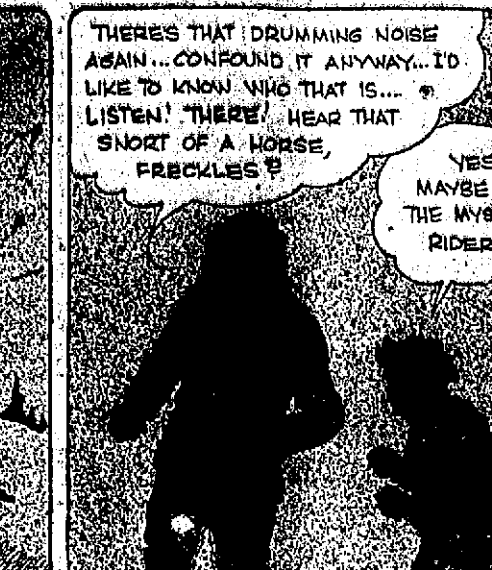

From the Fertilizer Review
More than 1,200 experimental plots are being used at the Fruit and Truck Branch Station at Hope, Ark., to determine the value of varieties, fertilizers and practices best suited in growing peaches, grapes, plums, cherries, apples, pears, pecans, small fruit, strawberries, Irish potatoes, cantaloupes, cucumbers, watermelons, tomatoes, corn, legumes, grains and sorghums.

The fertilizer investigations include tests comparing different combinations of the three essential elements, nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash; various sources of plant food, especially of nitrogen; and rate and method of applying the fertilizer.
Two years' results show that Irish potatoes respond quite profitably to

As Schwartz Paved Way for Notre Dame's 27-0 Victory Over Trojans

Here's a flashy bit of action from Saturday's great game at Los Angeles when Notre Dame completely upset the dope by defeating University of Southern California 27 to 0 in the intersectional contest. Schwartz, Notre Dame halfback, is shown plunging over left tackle for one of the gains which led to Notre Dame's first touchdown in the opening quarter when he passed the ball to Carideo, who went over. heavy applications of a high-analysis complete fertilizer. Where 1,000 pounds of 5-10-5 fertilizer were used per acre, six times more potatoes were grown than where no fertilizer was applied, according to Mr. Ware. All three elements in the various combinations of fertilizer seemed to be important and nothing less than complete fertilizer is being recommended. The station recommends from 500 to 1,000 pounds of a 5-10-5 fertilizer per acre to be applied under the row.

Sweet potato yields have been materially increased through the proper use of complete fertilizers. As a rule, Mr. Ware says he believes that 500 pounds per acre of 5-10-5 fertilizer is the most economical application for this crop. Cantaloupes likewise have shown profitable returns from liberal applicucumbers and 58 marketable watermelons where no fertilizer was used. Experiments with strawberries show that a complete fertilizer is necessary for most economical returns.

The largest yield of tomatoes in 1929 was obtained from the use of 1,900 pounds per acre of a 5-10-5 fertilizer, applied in the drill. The yield was 68.9 and 142.0 bushels of marketable tomatoes per acre where a 5-10-5 fertilizer was applied in the drill at the rates of 250, 500 and 1,000 pounds, respectively.

Fertilizer in moderate quantities should be applied in the drill for most row crops, according to Mr. Ware. A very extensive peach-fertilizer test including 15 different combinations and sources of fertilizer is being conducted on Elberta peaches to determine which fertilizer can be most profitably used by the grower over a period of years.
Cotton has responded profitably to proper fertilization at Hope. A 4-10-4 was applied at the rate of 200, 400, 600 and 1,000 pounds per acre and produced a net profit of $6.91, $7.76, $11.24, $12.44 and $14.57, respectively. A complete fertilizer analyzing 4 per cent phosphoric acid and 4 per cent potash is apparently the most promising. While as much as 1,000 pounds of 4-10-4 fertilizer can be profitably used, results indicate that 400 pounds per acre of 4-10-4 would be a safer practice from year to year in this section, Mr. Ware states.

Fruit and Truck Branch Station

The Fruit and Truck Branch Station is a branch of the State Agricultural Experiment Station of Agriculture and is located in Hempstead county, three miles northeast of Hope. It contains 180 acres of typical soil adapted to the production of various crops grown in the southwestern part of the state.

The purpose of the institution is to obtain reliable information on fertilizers, varieties and cultural and planting methods of fruit, truck and held crops for this section.

The Fruit and Truck Branch Station began operations in 1928 under the supervision of C. W. Ware, assistant director in charge. The various experiments conducted at the station have been carefully planned and are closely supervised. The field tests are studied and analyzed in the laboratory by specially trained men in order to determine the value of different ment for cucumbers and watermelons but nitrogen and potassium are important enough to justify the use of a complete fertilizer. One thousand pounds of a 5-10-5 fertilizer per acre produced 145 bushels of marketable cucumbers and 335 marketable watermelons, compared with 15 bushels of tiredly boresome, as well as unprofitable.

"My own grass would get pretty bushy at times," he said. "So I decided one day to make me a concrete lawn. I took up the sod, poured the cement and painted it bright green."

From a distance Penke's lawn looks like real grass trimmed to the smoothness of a putting green.

Only one thing bothers him now. He's afraid when the birds come back from the south that some unsuspecting robin may try using the lawn for a hunting ground. In which case, he fears, the bird will damage its boring apparatus.

His next move is to put in concrete shrubbery and hedge with the aid of metal lath. Then, when summer comes again, his lawn troubles will be over with an annual coat of paint, and a weekly washing with the hose. "My lawn will be green all winter, too," he says. "I'll keep the snow brushed off. The kids can have a skating rink if I pour on some water and let it freeze."

SO...it had happened to her, too. Deserted by her husband, for another woman. She, the woman who had struggled and sacrificed. Cast aside. An object of pity and scorn...

Stephen had been a good husband. What sudden madness had made him desert his wife and his two adoring children?
"I'm through," he had cried. "I hope I never see you again."
And he had left her—trembling, abandoned...
"He had no right to leave me," she sobbed. But perhaps she had made the one fatal mistake that has driven countless husbands into other women's arms. Can any woman ever regain the love she lost?

How to play Bridge
AUCTION or CONTRACT
by Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright, 1930, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 28

Many of the questions about Auction and Contract that are submitted to the writer show conclusively that there are many points about both games that puzzle the average player. One of the best ways to bring these facts before the readers of these articles is to publish every now and then questions of more or less general interest. The answers of these questions will not bid with the foregoing hand; at last Auction and Contract.

The hand is permitted only last

This hand was submitted only last week and shows that there are still players who do not understand the necessity, both at Auction and Contract, of over-bidding their partner's no trump with a two-suit hand: Y should bid two spades and, if his partner bids two no trumps, he should bid three clubs. Such a take-out is obligatory and Y has no choice in the matter. A two-suit hand is the strongest hand that can be held at Auction and will generally average to win two more tricks at its best suit bid than at no trump. Always overbid partner's no trumps with such a hand.

Question No. 2

Hearts—J, 4
Clubs—J, 9, 5, 4, 3, 2
A Z : Diamonds—9, 6, 2
B : Spades—10, 8

No score, rubber game. Z deals and bids one heart. A one no trump and Y two spades. What should B bid with the foregoing hand, both at Auction and Contract?

B should undoubtedly pass at both Auction and Contract. It would be very rash to bid three clubs. B has a trick in any suit but clubs and, while he might do fairly well at that suit, suppose his partner, A, should bid three no trumps thinking that B held strong cards. Such bidding would probably result in a double of three no trumps and, if so, B would have no choice except to bid four clubs. This bid would probably also be doubled and A & B

Clubs—7, 4
Diamonds—9, 7
Spades—8, 2

No score, Z dealt and bid three clubs and A passed. What should B bid with the foregoing hand, Auction and Contract?

Y should certainly bid three clubs at both Auction and Contract. B's hand is absolutely worthless no trump and yet should take mar with hearts trumps. If Z has no trumps for the purpose of putting a heart bid by his opponent now either let Y play the three hearts or bid three no trumps which justifies it. Y's bid, in his hand, however, is obligatory.

Solution to Problem No. 18

Hearts—10, 9
Clubs—9
Diamonds—K, 7
Spades—none

Hearts—3
Clubs—none
Diamonds—Q, J, 9
Spades—J

If spades are clubs and Z is in the lead, how can Y Z win three tricks against any defense?

Solution: The point of this problem is not to draw the longest trump. If Z leads the jack of spades, A B must win three tricks, the ace of diamonds, the ace of clubs and the queen of hearts. Z's correct play is to lead the nine of diamonds and, if A plays the king, Y Z must win three tricks, no matter what A leads. If he leads the 7 of spades, should trump and make his trumps. It is a cute little problem and should be carefully studied and discussed.

No matter who you are, these meetings are planned for you. There's something for everybody at every meeting. Talks on farm and home subjects, by these nationally known speakers. Moving pictures, charts and lantern slides. Come, and bring your neighbors.

The agricultural extension department of the International Harvester Company is sending these people, and these moving pictures to help with our Short Course. It is sponsored by the Civic Clubs of Hope, and those business houses interested in being helpful to the farmers of Southwest Arkansas, whose well-being is of so much importance in the future progress and prosperity of Hope, and all its trade territory.

All Hope cordially invites you to attend these meetings. They are absolutely free. No charge of any kind is to be made. This meeting is purely educational. No effort will be made to sell any articles of any nature.

Purcell, Okla., February 6, 1929. The short course was the best of its kind ever held in this county. Farmers and business men alike gained practical information that can be applied in everyday life. I know that everyone who attended is highly pleased.—Tom Morris, County Agent.

Spearman, Tex., February 25, 1929. I am sure I speak the sentiment of those who had the opportunity of being present, when I say that we will be delighted to have the same sort of a short course again next year.—A. H. Wilcox, Superintendent, Spearman Public Schools.

Big Spring, Texas, March 25, 1929. We believe the short course will be of material help to us in the promotion of our agricultural program and we want you to know that the Chamber of Commerce and its 450 members appreciate your services.—Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, by C. T. Watson, Manager.

Groveton, Texas, March 7, 1930. The people of Groveton and Trinity county highly appreciate the splendid work being done in our State by the International Harvester Company, and would express our obligations for the short course just concluded in our county. We recognize its educational value and believe that it will accelerate the progress of our people in every way.

The program of this course was the most balanced that has come to our knowledge. The lectures and pictures on the various subjects in the course make a decided appeal to the progressive spirit of this age, teaching as they do those fundamentals of life and business management in the home, on the farm and in the community which are essential to success and happiness.—W. T. Thagard, President, Chamber of Commerce.

Yorktown, Texas, March 1, 1930. On behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and our residents generally, we want to thank your Company for the splendid service which you rendered in conducting an agricultural short course here.—Paul A. Schmidt, Secretary.

Springhill, La., January 9, 1930. The short course was very much appreciated and very well attended by our people. It was something that we needed very badly, and was given us in a very excellent manner by your representatives. Something that we will long remember and we feel that it will be very beneficial to us in the future.—Pine Woods Lumber Company, Ltd.

About This Course

Navasota, Texas, February 6, 1930. We have just completed one of your two-day short courses here and we can not praise the personnel of this short course too highly. Everyone who attended these meetings agreed that your speakers not only knew how to put their message over but that it was done in a practical way that could be understood and made use of.

We wish to extend to your Company our congratulations in having people of this type as their representatives and to extend to you and them our personal appreciation, and thanks for your interest in assisting us in this way with the improvement of agriculture in this section.—Navasota and Grimes County Chamber of Commerce, by W. I. Ross, County Agent.

Anderson, Texas, February 5, 1930. Everyone in attendance were high in praise of the work presented by the staff and the manner of its presentation. It was in reality a profitable short course and held material for real education.—Kate Kelly, Home Demonstration Agent.

Houston, Texas, February 10, 1930. I want to express my opinion and appreciation of the short course your Company is putting on in our territory. I believe it is one of the best I have ever attended and your Company is to be highly commended for the valuable service you are rendering to the farmers as well as to the business men and bankers.—J. M. Symmonds, Assistant Agricultural Agent, Southern Pacific Lines.

Madisonville, Texas, February 11, 1930. It was a pleasure to work with your very efficient crew while they were with us. We feel that we were greatly benefited by the material they brought to us. We would like to have them come back again.—R. A. Manire, Madisonville Public Schools.

Clayton, La., January 29, 1930. We certainly do appreciate the good your department is doing for us, and wish everything we tried was as effective.—C. H. Holloway, President Concordia Parish Library Board of Control.

From Former Hope Citizen
Colfax, La., January 30, 1930. We want to thank you and the members of the International Harvester Company short course crew for the short course recently held in Colfax, and want to assure you that everyone in this community appreciated the privilege of attending and listening to such wonderful speeches as Mr. Mobley, Miss Smith and Mr. Hannon made. If possible to give us another date in the near future, I will assure you of a cordial welcome and a big crowd at the meetings.—C. S. Lowthorp, Jr., Agricultural Agent Louisiana & Arkansas Railway Company.
